Synopsis Notes

Which character, livelihood and story details do two language versions actually state?

Public preview scope

Seven selected cases from a fresh factual review of 29 complete pairs within the 38-film Un Certain Regard selections for 2022 and 2024. All seven public cases have two readable, hash-verified saved snapshots. Selection years are not capture dates: pages were retrieved in November 2026.

This brief presents two selected cases. The downloadable public sample contains 7 cases.

Underlying research edition

38 films in the fixed selection frame · 29 complete English/French text pairs reviewed · 9 entries missing a complete pair · 7 selected cases in this public preview

Interpretation limits

- This is an exploratory text comparison, not a cultural trend index or a translation-quality score.
- Nine of the 38 frame entries lack a complete bounded English/French pair and remain unclassified.
- The review reads all 29 preserved text pairs. Of their 58 full-page snapshot files, 42 were locally readable and reverified; 16 were not resident and were skipped. Every public case has both full snapshots verified.
- The snapshots are saved web-tool text extractions, not original HTML. They were retrieved in November 2026; first publication dates, translation direction and past wording are unknown.
- A detail not stated in an introduction may still appear in the film. No film-level fact checking or inference about editorial motives is made.
- The case review was performed by AI agents, not certified by a human bilingual editor.
